The annual meeting of the Brotherhood of St. Paul was held in the vestry and the Heddling M. E. church last evening, with about 45 members present. At 6:30 o'clock a fish chowder supper was cooked and served by the men and is said to have been excellent. Following the supper a few informal remarks were made for the good of the Brotherhood and the business meeting was then held.

The officers elected were as follows: President, T. J. Sowden; vice president, D. J. Morse; secretary, Albert C. Freeman; treasurer, J. C. Hawley. Seven new members were taken into the Brotherhood, making the total membership about sixty. During the evening the Heddling Male quartette sang several selections very enjoyably.

At the opera house for the balance of the week there will be the biggest show for 10c that has ever been seen there—Mlle. Carrina and her performing bears will appear at every performance.

The great base ball film, showing the Chicago and Detroit teams in their championship games last fall. A fine picture of Ruelbach is seen; also pictures of Jennings, Chance, and all the players in the game. A fine picture of Hans Wagner and the Pittsburgh team, the film shows the enormous crowds that attended the games. The other two reels will be changed to-day and again tomorrow, but the base ball film will run the balance of the week. At the Saturday matinee Miss Isabelle Gall, a little miss of seven years, will give some Highland dances.

Next Tuesday the Barre opera house will be occupied by the New York success, "Poly of the Circus," with Miss Fay Wallace in the leading part. The story, one full of human interest, deals with the fortunes of a young girl who becomes a circus rider and while the circus is playing in a small town is chosen from her horse at the door of a local minister, who cares for her through her illness. The usual village gossip follows and much misunderstanding follows, which, of course, rights itself in the end. The play has run successfully for one whole season at the Liberty theatre and will be given here for one performance with the same detail.
